

What CME Providers Need to Know About CEJA Report 1
Faculty

Bette Crigger, PhD is Director of Ethics Policy and Secretary of the Council on Ethical & Judicial Affairs at the American Medical Association. Bette came to the AMA from the National Center for Ethics in Health Care at the Veterans Health Administration in Washington, DC, where she served as chief of ethics communications with editorial responsibility for all center publications. Prior to her appointment with VA, Dr. Crigger was a member of the professional staff of The Hastings Center. Dr. Crigger holds a PhD in anthropology and linguistics from The University of Chicago.

Sharon P. Douglas, MD is Professor of Medicine and Associate Dean for VA Education at the University of Mississippi School of Medicine. She graduated from the University of Mississippi School of Medicine, where she also did residency training in Internal Medicine and fellowship training in Pulmonary Medicine. She currently teaches ethics to medical students, internal medicine residents, and pulmonary fellows at the University of Mississippi School of Medicine. Dr. Douglas, who was elected to CEJA in 2005, has a special interest in palliative care.

Norman Kahn Jr., MD, is the Executive Vice President and CEO of the Council of Medical Specialty Societies. Prior to joining CMSS, Kahn was vice president for science and education at the American Academy of Family Physicians. A graduate of the University of Kansas School of Medicine, Kansas City, Kahn completed his residency at the University of California-San Francisco General Hospital Family and Community Medicine Residency Program. He has held a variety of positions in addition to his experience with the AAFP, including establishing a rural family medicine practice in Hughson, Calif., and serving as director of both a community-based and a university-based family medicine residency program. He also served as special assistant to the dean for the California Area Health Education Center. In addition, Kahn has served as the AAFP's representative on the CMSS Council for six years.