

Jon Aleckson, CEO of Web Courseworks, is a nationally-recognized speaker and writer on eLearning topics. Aleckson has stayed on the cutting edge of interactive learning, producing award-winning projects in game-based learning as well as innovative, work with Moodle, an open source LCMS.

Aleckson is a PhD candidate for Educational Leadership and Policy Analysis at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, where he received his MA in Education Leadership and BS in Education. He is currently doing research on factors that enable collaboration between the development team and subject matter expert when creating highly interactive learning objects.

Jon's team at Web Courseworks supports and hosts over 20 Moodle instances and designs courses for both corporate and higher-education clients.